

A Time Travelling Hero

Nelson, standing proudly at the bow of the HMS Victory was wearing his uniform adorned with medals. He was steering the ship as the waves started building.

The ship started to lose control, and the wheel came off in his hands. Suddenly, he found himself darting down the river Thames being carried by Tsunami like waves, he was in the centre of London in 1666!

All around him houses were burning. It was very dark and extremely hot and people were running around screaming. Nelson realised he had travelled back to the Great Fire of London!

Nelson instantly jumped off the ship to help. He grabbed wooden doors for people to surf back down the Thames and to safety. On this journey, he even stopped at St Pauls Cathedral!

He found and rescued a box of treasure, carrying it down the river. He helped to rescue all the frightened people who had to leave everything behind.

Two years later, Nelson returns the precious treasure and the money to help rebuild London. Nelson was rewarded a medal for bravery, and he had great memories travelling back in time to the Great Fire of London!

*A story written by Reception-Year 2
at Alton School*

Gecko's Great Adventure

Once upon a time in Jamaica, there was a valiant but crazy gecko. One day he decided to go for a walk in the mystical, mountains where he discovered an unnoticed rainforest hidden deep in the luscious, green valley. As he explored, he came across a giant ear shaped rock! Gecko screeched,
"Hello Ear"

And the small but mighty creature crawled into the ear using his sticky feet. Inside the enticing tunnel he hopped along from side to side and quickly reached a magical, sparkling crown. When he put it on his head a giant explosion transported him back.....in.....time!

He crept out of the ear shaped rock but the valley looked different. He heard a roar! He saw a colossal Tyrannosaurus Rex with gaping jaws and sharp teeth. It was trying to eat him. The gecko saw a miniscule cave and he ran inside to escape from the dinosaur. He crept softly so the dinosaur wouldn't hear him. He needed to find the sparkling crown. He peered into the darkness. Suddenly he saw something glistening. It was the time-travelling crown. He hastily ran towards it and put it back on his head.

Whoosh! He was home.

A story written by Kindergarten and Reception classes at Ayscoughfee Hall School.

Dragons and Marshmallows

Once upon a time machine, there was a Reception Class who liked listening to adventure stories. One day, they found a real time machine. It was big and silver.

They went in it. There was an invisible door and they had to climb a ladder to get in. The teacher said "Wow that looks cool." They didn't want to be lonely, so they asked the teacher to go with them.

They climbed up the ladder and opened the invisible door and sat down. They turned on the engine with a golden key. They flew to the old, old, old, old days and landed in a forest. The forest was scary and dark. They climbed down the ladder and they saw a big green dragon. He was guarding a princess in a castle. They didn't know if he was a scary dragon but the children and the teacher ran to the castle and said, "Hello, can we please come in the castle?" The dragon said, "Yes".

They searched the castle for the princess. She was in a big tower. They all made friends and they roasted marshmallows on the dragon's fiery breath. The dragon and the princess liked the marshmallows.

*A story written by Reception
at Bronte School*

The Wolf and His Time Travelling Adventure

A long long time ago there was an old, fluffy and scary-looking wolf inside a giant castle. The King of the castle told the wolf that he had a time machine. So, the wolf went to find it. He was feeling comme ci comme ça. The time machine was grey with flashing red lights. Inside there were lots of different coloured buttons. The wolf decided to press the colourful buttons but did not know what they were for. The time machine started to make some crackly noises when suddenly...

...BOOM! Went the time machine.

When the time machine was silent, the wolf opened the door nervously. He peeked out and saw big, fearsome dinosaurs. He realised he was not in the castle anymore. So, the wolf tried to press some buttons to get home but the time machine was not working. He realised it was broken. Stepping out, dinosaurs started to chase the wolf. He fell into the river and escaped. He managed to find the time machine again and discovered a hidden lever and pulled it. The time machine was reset and took the wolf back to the castle just in time for tea with the King and Queen.

A story written by Lower Prep at Heritage School

The Time Machine

"Wow! This is amazing!" shouted Toby as he slowly opened the door of his super Time Travelling Machine and stepped out into a jungle full of tall, leafy, green trees. Toby looked around and saw a big volcano with lava coming out.

Suddenly, a Spinosaurus ran out from behind a waterfall and jumped into the Time Travelling Machine. Toby ran in after him and tried to shoo him out but the dinosaur was so tall that he started to break the levers and buttons.

"Oh no!" said Toby as the time machine started to swirl and whirl and bump through the waterfall. The water splashed into the machine and broke it. There was smoke everywhere and then a fire started!

Luckily, a Brachiosaurus saw what happened and started to suck up cold water from the waterfall. The Brachiosaurus quickly squirted the water onto the fire to put it out. The Spinosaurus fell out of the Time Machine and ran off towards the volcano. Toby looked sad because his machine was broken, the Brachiosaurus noticed and helped by sucking the water out of it. Luckily, Toby managed to fix the levers and buttons and he zoomed back to the playground at Oakhyrst Grange School.

A story written by Kindergarten Class at Oakhyrst Grange School

The Time Machine in the Sea

Once upon a time, in an ocean far away, there was a lost time machine deep in the water. One day, a mermaid found the time machine. Suddenly, a robot appeared from the time machine scaring the mermaid. She accidentally whacked her tail and the time machine stopped working. She saw that the robot was friendly and so they tried to fix the machine together. But the time machine wouldn't flash and they couldn't make it work. The robot started to get sad because he couldn't go back home if the machine was broken. But, one day, an asteroid came down from space, across the sky and hit the time machine. The time machine started to make funny noises and the mermaid whacked it again with her tail and this time the machine started to flash different colours. It was working! Finally, the robot could go back home. But he decided to ask the mermaid if she would like to go with him. The mermaid said yes and they both entered the machine. With a bang and a shake, the amazing time machine teleported them back to the robot's planet and they lived happily ever after.

*A story written by Reception
at The Gower School*

A Time Travelling Christmas

Once upon a time and far, far away, there lived a happy family in a little cottage. Today they were very sad though because it was Christmas day and they had woken up and there were no presents from Santa! What had happened? They decided to have some breakfast and hang some decorations on the Christmas tree to cheer themselves up. One of the baubles looked a bit dirty so the little girl, Sarah, gave it a rub to try and clean it. Suddenly there was a 'whoosh' and she whizzed backwards in the air.

Once she stopped whooshing, she looked around her and realised she was in Santa's house and the date on the calendar said it was Christmas Eve – she had travelled back in time! Suddenly, a worried elf appeared and told her that Santa had a cold and was too poorly to deliver the presents. Sarah wanted to help! The elf sprinkled some magic dust on her and she got into the sleigh. She worked all night to deliver presents to everyone in the whole world! The last presents she delivered were for her family. They would be so happy when they woke up on Christmas Day!

*A story written by Reception
at Thornton College*

Sheepy's Magical Adventure

One stormy night, in an American field, a fluffy sheep called Sheepy found an old magical time clock buried in mud. She discovered a button that took her inside the clock.

Sheepy pushed a cog and suddenly zoomed to the pyramids in Egypt!

She climbed out and saw a dark, crumbling cave that Sheepy was excited to explore. Nervously, she crept inside and found a big strawberry cake. Sheepy thought: - how did it get there? It looked very yummy. She ate it all up! It belonged to a creepy Mummy (covered in green slime), who was very angry Sheepy had eaten its cake.

The Mummy chased Sheepy so she ran as fast as she could and luckily found the time clock again. Sheepy got back in but it took her to see Guy Fawkes in London! He asked her to blow up the Houses of Parliament but she said "NO!" She clambered back into the magical clock and this time it took her back to her field in America. Sheepy was exhausted after her adventure, so she went to bed. When she woke up the time clock was gone. She didn't know if it was a dream or not...

*A story written by RM
at Thorpe Hall School*